Memorial to 'Five Friends' dedicated

Five Bloomsburg University students who died in a fire on October 21, 1994, are remembered on a plaque in front of the "Five Friends Memorial."

Kyle G. Barton, 21, of Staten Island, N.Y., son of James and Marybeth Barton. A scholastic tennis star, he was heavily recruited by former Bloomsburg tennis coach Burt Reese and was named NCAA Rookie of the Year in his freshman year. He was a Grateful Dead devotee and camping enthusiast. A fifth-year senior majoring in education, he died a week shy of his 22nd birthday.

Deborah J. Keeler, 21, of Milton, N.J., daughter of Eugene and Elaine Keeler. She worked at Berrigan's Sub Shop as a part-time sandwich maker and hoped to become a high school history teacher. A jogger, she would often run from campus and her sorority, Chi Sigma Rho, to the Bloomsburg Fairgrounds.

Derek J. Mooney, 20, of Downingtown, son of Robert and Maryann Mooney. A geology major, he hoped to work in environmental research. A scholastic soccer star, he played at BloomU until his interests expanded in his second year to include weekend backpacking and hiking trips.

James R. Palmer, of Millville, son of Jim and Linnae Wintersteen. An undeclared first-year freshman, he also was a scholastic soccer star and all-state player at Millville High School. He was a volunteer at the Women's Center and worked with educational programs dealing with date rape and domestic violence. He enjoyed role-playing, working with children, and was considering an acting career.

Joseph P. Selena, 23, of Wyoming, Pa., son of John and Rita Selena. He worked as a short-order cook at Russell's Restaurant and had just returned to classes after taking a two-year break from school. He was a dozen credits shy of graduating with a degree in elementary education, earning the joking nickname of "Slow Joe" from friends. He appeared as the Crow character during the 4-Wheel Off-Road Jamboree held each summer at Bloomsburg Fairgrounds. A hiking enthusiast and also a fan of the Grateful Dead, Selena had moved into the house only a few weeks earlier.

Five alumni join Athletic Hall of Fame

The 15th BloomU Athletic Hall of Fame class was inducted on Homecoming Eve, October 25, bringing the total membership to 62. The inductees were John Nemetz '55, Rich Budweg '78, Rob Vance '80, Don Reese '82 and Deb Long Stoudt '84.

Nemetz was a standout in Bloomsburg's strong defense in football. He placed on the 1951 Associated Press All-Teachers College football first team. He also earned second team AP All-Pennsylvania honors as an offensive tackle. Later in his career, he was All-East in 1953 and Little All-American in 1953-1954.

A 20-season coaching career began after getting his master's degree. His wrestling teams posted a 212-62-8 record, including 58 consecutive Shore Conference dual-meet victories. He has earned numerous honors as a result of his coaching success, including induction into the South Jersey Wrestling Hall of Fame in 1992, a year after being inducted into the Shore Conference Hall of Fame.

Budweg was an eighth-round draft pick by Major League baseball's St. Louis Cardinals in 1978, and then signed with the New York Yankees in 1983. Among his collegiate honors, he was a Mid-Atlantic Region second-team selection as a pitcher in his sophomore season and was a first team PSAC selection in both 1977 and 1978. In 1978, he ranked fourth in the NCAA with 11.7 strikeouts per nine innings. His 0.66 earned run average in 1978, which remains a school record, ranked him second nationally.

He still holds 11 school records and was the first player in school history to throw a no-hitter with a 1-0 win over Shippensburg on May 1, 1977. His career record at Bloomsburg was 8-8, a strong record considering Bloomsburg finished above .500 only once during his four years, and had seasons with 2-23 and 5-18 records. He also posted impressive career marks of a 2.52 ERA and 9.3 strikeouts per nine innings.

Vance was the first tennis player to reach 100 wins and finished his career with a singles record of 108-36, still fourth all-time in total wins. He was also the first player to win four consecutive conference titles in either singles or doubles. His two individual Pennsylvania Conference singles titles as the Number One player came in 1979 and 1980 as he helped the Huskies to their first two PSAC team titles.

Vance was the first player to advance to the NCAA tournament three straight years for Bloomsburg, twice as part of a doubles team and once in singles. Along with his four doubles championships, Vance also won two Eastern Intercollegiate titles with Nate Levine, and the pair is still regarded as one of the best doubles teams.

Reese is the only wrestler in school history to win an individual Eastern Wrestling League title in each of his four seasons. Twice he won at 126 pounds and twice at 134 pounds. As a senior, he became the second athlete to advance to the NCAA Division I national championship match, finishing as the runner-up at 134 pounds in 1982, earning All-American honors with the effort.

As a senior, he was a PSAC champion, an EWL champion, and the national runner-up at 134 pounds. Following his senior season, he was named the Athlete of the Year at Bloomsburg State College. He is still one of the all-time winningest wrestlers in Bloomsburg history with a career record of 126-22-1.

Stoudt was a member of the successful field hockey and softball teams of the early 1980s. She was a three-time All-American field hockey performer who was on two national championship clubs. In the 1981-1982 school year, she was on the field hockey team which won the national championship in the fall and on the softball team which did the same in the spring. Her field hockey teams posted a 59-16-7 mark, while her softball squads registered a 114-21 mark and made four national tournament appearances.

Culminating her field hockey career at Bloomsburg, Deb scored the lone goal in both the PSAC and national title games, leading the Huskies to both titles in 1983. In the summer of 1982, she earned a spot on the East team at the U.S. Sports Festival in Indianapolis, ranking her among the nation's top 65 performers. A year earlier, she became one of the youngest players to reach the Olympic tryout stage, performing at the USFHA National Tournament and competing for a spot on the U.S. Olympic squad.

Grimes Awards for 1996

One hundred one Bloomsburg University alumni have earned distinction as recipients of the ninth annual Richard I. Grimes Loyalty Awards. They earned this distinction in 1996 by attending a regional alumni event, by returning to campus for either Alumni Weekend or Homecoming, and by making a financial contribution.

Attending both Alumni Weekend and Homecoming can substitute for a regional alumni event, since the latter are not held in all areas every year.

The award honors Richard "Bully" Grimes, a retired teacher from Harrisburg, who has missed only one Homecoming (1954) and not a single Alumni Weekend since he graduated in 1949. He earned life membership on the Alumni Association Board of Directors in 1994 after completing 14 years of service.

We salute the following alumni who are recipients of the 1996 awards (number in parenthesis indicates consecutive years the award has been earned).

At that time, during one of the lowest slumps in the oil industry, Dan formed Subsurface Consultants & Associates, Inc. Numerous colleagues told him it could not be done, because oil related businesses were downsizing or going out of business. He recognized that the industry depression and massive layoffs would result in the need for high tech consulting and training, so he forged ahead with SCA.

He co-authored a 650-page graduate level textbook on the methodology of petroleum prospect mapping. A first of its kind, the book served as the foundation for marketing the company's consulting and training services.

In 1992, SCA expanded its services to include high tech computer mapping and 3-D seismic studies. At the same time, the company entered the international arena.

In 1994, using his entrepreneurial skills, he co-authored a second world class technical book. He also established the "Homeroom" consulting program, a new concept for the petroleum industry.

By 1995, SCA was conducting work in about 20 countries on six continents, with offices in Venezuela,

Archbishop Desmond Tutu meets young South African who came to Bloomsburg on Tutu Scholarship

By Dr. JACK MULKA '66
Dean, Academic Support Services

How did it happen? How were we able to attract one of the world's most respected humanitarians and advocates of peace as our December Commencement speaker? To answer these and other questions, we should go back four years to the time Lucky Lesiba Mabokela enrolled as a freshman at Bloomsburg University.

Or perhaps we should even go back further to 1984, when Bishop Desmond Tutu was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for his "role as a unifying leader . . . in the campaign to resolve the problem of apartheid in South Africa" and "to direct attention to the nonviolent struggle for liberation."

A year after winning the $193,000 Nobel cash award, Bishop Tutu established the Bishop Desmond Tutu Southern African Scholarship Fund for indigent South African blacks. He named his daughter, Mpho, as the program's director.

During the summer of 1992, Mpho and two friends of the university — the late Richard "Dick" Benefield and Harold Hein — met with various university officials to explore the possibility of affiliating with the Bishop's program and having deserving students from South Africa enroll at Bloomsburg University.

Six months later, Lucky Lesiba Mabokela, a student from Kwa-Mbanga, arrived on campus, accompanied by Harold Hein and Mpho. Lesiba, as he prefers to be called, came from a poverty-stricken family and was supported by grants and scholarships provided by the Tutu Fund, the Bloomsburg University Foundation, the Mitrani Family Foundation and the Institute of International Education.

After getting familiar with the campus, Lesiba started an exemplary journey as a student leader. He was elected president of the International Students Association, earned membership in Delta Mu Delta (Business Honor Society), and was chosen as a Husky Ambassador. He also served on the university's International Education Advisory Board.

As an accounting major, he achieved Dean's List status six semesters and graduated with a 3.45 grade point average. A popular student with a stellar record, Lesiba graduated in December and hopes to return to the United States to pursue an MBA degree.

So how was the circle completed with the selection of Archbishop Tutu as commencement speaker and recipient of an honorary degree?

During the fall of 1995, Lesiba and I were chatting about his plans after graduation. I was encouraging him to "think big," as I often do with student leaders who demonstrate tremendous talent and potential. We were discussing his return to the Republic of South Africa and making his mark in life, like Mandela and Tutu have done.

At that moment, it struck us. Why not try to secure Archbishop Desmond Tutu as speaker at Lesiba's commencement? Sure, it was a long shot, but worth a try. What were the chances that the Archbishop would be available to speak in Bloomsburg on Saturday, December 14, 1996? Our conversation took place in early October 1995.

So Lesiba and I wrote a recommendation to Provost Wilson Bradshaw, which was then taken to the President's Cabinet. After approving the idea, President Jessica Kozloff asked Hein, a friend of Tutu's and Bloomsburg University, to serve as her emissary in extending an official invitation to the Archbishop. And the rest, of course, is now history.

ARCHBISHOP Desmond Tutu is greeted by Dr. George Agbango, associate professor and chair of the University's political science department, while President Jessica Kozloff looks on.

People have asked, "What kind of person is the Archbishop?" I tell them he is like one of us. He makes people feel comfortable. He goes out of his way to thank people like police officers, waiters, waitresses, chefs and ushers. He has a great sense of humor.

Here is an example. When the Archbishop was welcomed by Bloomsburg University officials at the Scranton/Wilkes-Barre Airport, he shared this story with us. As he was entering the terminal with the other passengers on the commuter flight from Boston, he overheard one of the passengers, who took note of the television cameras and reporters, remarked, "There is someone important here." When the individual discovered that the person was Archbishop Tutu, she exclaimed, "I thought I recognized him!"

"This is a dream come true. This is the best graduation gift that I could receive. I can't believe it!"

How were others affected by his visit to Bloomsburg?

The Archbishop's friend, Mr. Hein, remarked, "I sensed there was an air of excitement on campus from the time he came until he left. Although he and Mrs. Tutu were fatigued when they arrived after a long flight, their kindness, genuineness and warmth touched the people they met. And they enjoyed themselves, too."

Provost Bradshaw compared his perceptions before and after meeting the Archbishop. "Of course we were aware of his diligence and commitment to the pursuit of peace. But after meeting him and listening to his commencement address, I was even more impressed. It was a wonderful event for all, and a very bright day for Bloomsburg University."

Two state policemen, Michael Tracy '72 and Kent Lane '89, were given the prestigious assignment of accompanying the Archbishop and his wife to all events held in conjunction with their visit. Trooper Tracy, who was chosen by the Governor's Office for this detail, called it "one of the highlights of my career. The Archbishop and Mrs. Tutu are wonderful people. They are intelligent and easy to work with. It was truly an honor and privilege for me to have this assignment."

Tony Lanero, vice president for advancement and chairperson of the committee which planned the itinerary and special events for Tutu's visit, noted "It was an incredible experience to be with Archbishop and Mrs. Tutu. He was extremely gracious, humble and receptive to all who met him. He inspired me, and others, with his comments and actions. If we can do just a portion of what he has advocated throughout his life, we can be successful."

While in Bloomsburg for their two-night stay, the South African couple was accommodated at the Inn at Turkey Hill Innkeeper Andrew Pruden was delighted that the university made reservations with his Inn. "To have someone like Desmond Tutu stay at the Inn is a tribute and honor. The most impressive part of his stay was his genuine concern for others. He shook hands and thanked everyone who works at the Inn. I really appreciated his tremendous sense of humor. He made me feel comfortable."

Reflecting on the importance of the Archbishop's presence on campus, President Kozloff said she continues to run into members of the faculty and community who say they were overwhelmed by the Archbishop's wisdom and warmth.

"His presence touched many, many lives. Members of the University family and the community were brought together in a setting which enabled us to focus and think about issues and events far beyond Bloomsburg, yet relevant to our personal lives."

"I was so impressed by his continued optimism about the human spirit, and his belief that we have the ability as humans to overcome our flaws and differences to make the world a better place," she concluded.

And I will always remember Lesiba's reaction when I told him the Archbishop had accepted our invitation. He didn't speak at first, and then, with tears in his eyes, he said "This is a dream come true. This is the best graduation gift that I could receive. I can't believe it!"

He is widely considered to be one of the leading developers of practical applications for new technologies and speaks frequently on the topic. He most recently served as a member of the panel at Interactive Marketing '96, an event coordinated by NBC and Advertising Age, an advertising industry publication.

Prior to joining Criterion, he created the multimedia division for CPL, a technology systems integration company based in King of Prussia. While there, he built alliances with AT&T, Oracle, Microsoft, Silicon Graphics, Starlight, Sun Microsystems and numerous other hardware and software companies.

Previously a marketing and technology analyst for a Paris-based birding products company, Rockman moved from the creation of his first kiosk system to create a series of eight interactive kiosks for the Bethlehem Musikfest "Technoplaz" in 1992, highlighting the festival's more than 250 performances. Among the international critical acclaim, the system was awarded Best New Attraction by the International Association of Festivals.

"Bloomsburg graduates played a significant role in the creation of Future 3000, and an even bigger role in my success to date."

Noting that his organization now employs at least six Bloomsburg graduates, Rockman said he is pleased with the balance of theory and practical experience they bring with them.

Veterans' Corner

By DALE A. KROTHER '60
Chairman,
Veterans Committee

We recently received several issues of the 1943 Naval Flight Instructor's School publication, "Straight and Level," from Walter A. Zorn, Class of 1951, whose brother, Irv, was involved with the program at Bloomsburg. Reading through the issues (written when we were 10 years old), we've enjoyed the trip down "memory lane." We thought our veterans and alumni of all ages might enjoy a few excerpts.

August 10, 1943 — "Things That Bore Us," a contributors' column, had the following "pet peeves" sent in: (1) the man in front of you who is always out of step, (2) the three-week period separating a change in bed spreads.

August 10, 1943 — "N-I-S Rb. Hecklers" During an examination the question was asked, "Name the principal parts of a sentence." The answer was "solitary confinement and bread and water."

These publications, along with all items sent to our Alumni Veterans Committee, will eventually find their way into the university archives, where anyone doing research can reconstruct life at Bloomsburg during the war years. Alumni are encouraged to send historical data and photographs to the Alumni Office at any time.

Biographical forms for veterans can be obtained by contacting the Alumni Office at 1-800-526-0254. All veterans (or their relatives) are urged to complete a form for inclusion in the Book of Valor or the Book of Service which are kept in a Veterans' area in the Feastemaker Alumni House.

The Veterans Memorial Scholarship for 1996-1997 was presented to Teresa Greiner, who also received the scholarship last year. This is the seventh scholarship awarded since 1990-1991.

In order to increase the principal and interest in the Veterans Scholarship Fund, this guaranteeing the $1,000 annual award, our committee and the Bloomsburg University Foundation will discuss future options and strategies which could involve a mini-

Student magazine wins still more gold

Spectrum magazine, published by students of Bloomsburg University, has been awarded a gold medalist certificate by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

The competition included entrants from 335 colleges and universities across the United States. Spectrum earned 998 points out of 1,000 — making it first in the point rankings.

The award is another in a series of national awards that Spectrum has earned since its inception in 1986. In seven of the past nine years, the student publication has earned medalist honors from the CSPA.

Spectrum has been similarly honored by the American Scholastic Press Association and the Association for College Press, which has awarded "All-American" honors to the Bloomsburg magazine for eight consecutive years.

Spectrum is published twice a year and has a circulation of approximately 2,000 copies sold to off-campus readers. The magazine is student-produced in a laboratory setting in which the professor acts as editor-in-chief of the magazine, but students hold all other editorial and management positions.

"Spectrum magazine, and the quality of the work of my students, is a wonderful reminder of why I chose to become a college professor," says faculty advisor Walter Brasch, professor of mass communications.

ATHLETIC EXCELLENCE — The BloomU athletic program was recognized as the outstanding overall athletic program in the State System of Higher Education for 1995-1996. The inaugural Dixon Trophy was presented during half-time of the last football game of the season. On hand for the presentation were (from left) Dr. Joseph Mowad, chair of the Council of Trustees, Lt. Gov. Mark Schweiker '75, Dr. James H. McConny, chairman of the State System, Dr. Jessica Kozloff, president of Bloomsburg University, Mary Gardner, athletic director, Dr. Preston Herring, vice president for student life, and Atty. Robert Buchner, long-time member of the Council of Trustees.

1996: A fine year for BloomU athletics

Bloomsburg University won the inaugural Eugene Dixon Trophy for the best all-around athletic program in the State System of Higher Education of Pennsylvania for 1995-1996. Dixon has served as chairperson of the State System Board of Governors since its creation in 1983.

During 1996, 11 of the 18 varsity programs participated in NCAA post-season competition, and eight teams won or shared the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference or Eastern Division title, with the field hockey team winning its fifth NCAA Championship.

The year began with the men's and women's basketball teams claiming the top spot in the PSAC Eastern Division, and each boasting the PSAC East Player of the Year in guard Mike Elly and center Kim Stamm.

In the 100th season of men's basketball, 25th-year head coach Charlie Chramister led the Huskies to their eighth trip to the NCAA Championships and the sixth 20-win season in school history. Bloomsburg finished with a 21-7 record (9-3 PSAC East), set a school record with 16 consecutive victories, and won all 15 home contests at Nelson Field House. Lee Gump finished a fine career with 1,430 career points, good for sixth on the all-time scoring list. Elly led the Huskies in scoring with a 20.3 points per game average, falling just short of the school record for most points in a season.

The women's team was atop the PSAC East for the first time in three seasons with a 17-11 season (9-3 PSAC East), and returned to the PSAC tournament after a one-year hiatus. The Huskies led national runner-up Shippensburg late in the PSAC semi-finals, but could not hold on for the victory. In addition to Stamm's award as Player of the Year, Erin Beggs was named the PSAC East Rookie of the Year. Stamm completed her career sixth on the all-time scoring list (1,135) and third in rebounding (772).

A pair of freshmen highlighted the wrestling season, as the team finished with a 5-9 dual-meet record, a fourth-place finish at the PSAC Championships, and a fifth-place showing at the Eastern Wrestling League meet. At 126 pounds, Brett Tullo led the team in wins (26) and placed third at the EWL Championships to qualify for the NCAA Division I Championships. Classmate Justin Brinkley also earned a spot in the NCAA Championships at 167 and finished the season second on the team with 24 victories.

In women's swimming, the Huskies posted a top-15 finish at the NCAA Division II Championships for the seventh straight season, a 6-4 dual-meet record, and a fourth-place finish at the PSAC Championships. Heather Towne had six top-six place finishes at the PSAC Championships, including a runner-up finish in the 200-yard breaststroke event. Meg Mikolachuk also had a second-place finish, in the 1050-yard freestyle, as did Heather Jones in the 100-yard backstroke.

Winning the most dual meets since 1983-1984, the men's swim team posted a 6-7 record and opened the season by winning the first four dual meets. At the PSAC Championships, the squad placed eighth and was paced by three-time qualifiers Jonathan Coughenour and Allen Horton. During the season, seven school records were broken.

The Dixon Trophy

The men's tennis team won its 10th straight PSAC title in the spring, sweeping all nine flights, and had a 15-8 dual meet record. In advancing to the NCAA Division II quarterfinals, Bloomsburg defeated West Texas A&M in the opening round before falling to national champion Uander. During the season, the doubles team of Marcus Nilsson and Rob Dixon climbed to third in the Division II rankings, and Kyle Richards was as high as eighth in singles. The doubles team of Kyle Richards and Evan Rosen set a school record with 32 wins.

Another streak was kept alive by the softball team, as Jan Hutchinson's team competed in the NCAA Division II Championships for the 14th straight season, the only Division II team to accomplish that feat, and was one base hit from advancing to the championship round for the sixth time in seven years. Bloomsburg (36-12, 19-5 PSAC) gave Hutchinson her 600th career softball win with an 8-1 win over Wayne State on March 12. Later that day, Christine Kittle pitched the 37th no-hitter in school history. Two-time All-American shortstop Jen Lelever finished her career with 14 school and six PSAC records more than any other player in school history, and a .410 batting average.

For only the second time in school history, the men's baseball team had three straight seasons with 20 or more wins, as the team went 22-22, 10-10 in the PSAC East. With an 11-5 win over Mercyhurst on March 23, Matt Haney became the winningest coach in school history, passing predecessor John Babb. Finishing the season with an 11-game hitting streak, Ben Henicle led the team in hitting, while John Stillo paced the squad in doubles and homers, while Jon Fritz had a team best 11 RBI.

The women's lacrosse team split its last four games to finish the season with a 2-9 record. Goalender Betsy Roberge set a school record for save percentage in a season (.597) and another record with 23 saves against PSAC champion West Chester. Leading the Huskies with 21 goals was Colleen Fahne, while defender

Kon Bullock was Bloomsburg's All-PSAC choice.

Playing its NCAA season in the spring and its PSAC season in the fall, the women's tennis team qualified for its first NCAA Championships berth in the spring, but fell to national runner-up Abilene Christian. In the fall, the Huskies won their second straight PSAC title, winning five of the six singles flights and one doubles title. Freshman Danielle Faretta was named the league's Player and Rookie of the Year after winning the first singles title, and Mary Coyne was Coach of the Year. Another freshman, Cara Fiore, did not lose a match, singles or double, during the fall.

The field hockey team won the sixth national title in school history, the first since 1993, with a 1-0 win at Lock Haven on November 10. The Huskies finished with a record 19-2, including a perfect PSAC mark of 8-0, the 11th time in 16 seasons the team has had 19 or more wins in a season. Senior Michelle Martin was named the Division II Player of the Year and a first team All-American, along with seniors Tracy Barnhill and Nicky Mowrer. On the second team was sophomore goaltender Bev Hartley.

Also earning a berth in the NCAA Division II Championships was the football team, which finished the season with a 10-2 record and the PSAC East title for the third straight fall. Bloomsburg was in the NCAA field for the first time since 1985 and was named ECAC Division II Team of the Year following the season. Junior tailback Irvn Sigler picked up the PSAC East Offensive Player of the Year honors, and Danny Hale was named Coach of the Year for the third straight time. The Huskies had the most PSAC East, All-Northeast Region and ECAC all-star selections of any school.

Making its first appearance in the NCAA Championships, the women's soccer team had its best fall in the history of the program in gaining the national quarterfinals. The Huskies finished with an 18-3-1 record, the most wins in school history, and won their first-ever PSAC Championship. Sophomore Julie Bugg was a first team All-American with senior Jill Funn earning second team honors. Junior Kelly Conn was the Huskies' first-ever PSAC Player of the Year, and Chuck Landermilch was Northeast Region Coach of the Year.

The men's soccer team advanced to the PSAC Championship game for the first time since 1977 and finished the season with the second highest win total in school history with its 12-6-1 season. The Huskies were second in the PSAC with a 6-1-1 league record and had the most wins in a season since 1979. Individually, Bloomsburg swept the major player awards in the PSAC with sophomore Neil Stoddart chosen Player of the Year and freshman Paul Yates the league Rookie of the Year.

Posting the best finish by a Bloomsburg runner in the NCAA Regional Championships, junior Chris Moscatello placed fifth in the meet to gain All-Region and All-ECAC honors. He paced the Huskies in all nine competitions during the fall season.

On the women's side, freshman Michelle Wolyniec won her first collegiate meet and led

PRIDE program receives two grants

Two grants totalling $36,500 have been pledged to the PRIDE (Personal Responsibility in Developing Excellence) program at Bloomsburg University.

The Whitaker Foundation of Mechanicsburg has pledged $30,000 over the next three years, while the Franklin H. & Ruth L. Wells Foundation, also of Mechanicsburg, has contributed $6,500 toward the 1997 program.

"Having this endorsement from the Whitaker and Wells foundations shows an understanding by the private sector of the influence education has on today's society," noted Dr. Mary Harris, PRIDE director. "Private funding is vital to the provision of resources that offer a challenging academic experience for PRIDE's teenagers. This program is an excellent example of the kind of activity that can channel the energy of youth into positive experiences which can lead to benefits for a lifetime."

Now in its sixth year, PRIDE enrolls selected seventh through twelfth grade students with the goals of having them eventually graduate from a program of higher education, become economically self-sufficient, and be independent of welfare. Eighteen of the first class of 25 students graduated from high school in 1996.

The program is a partnership which includes the Harrisburg School District, the State System of Higher Education, Bloomsburg University, and business and industry.

LEGACY SCHOLARSHIP — The winner of the 1996 Alumni Legacy Scholarship was Andra Billet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Billet of Danville. Charles is a member of the Class of 1979. The $500 scholarship was awarded by a drawing from a pool of alumni sons and daughters enrolled at Bloomsburg. Alumni who have sons or daughters enrolled at Bloomsburg for the fall 1997 semester may call the Alumni Office (1-800-526-0254 or 389-4058) to enter their names for the 1997 drawing, to be held on August 1.

Scholarships created by alumni, friends

Several new scholarships have been established by alumni and friends of the University:

Charles Baron Memorial Scholarship, created by the family and friends of this member of the Class of 1952.

Class of 1990 Scholarship, created as a senior gift which has now grown to over $10,000. The first award will be given to a senior in the fall of 1997.

Captain's Scholarship, created by friends of B.U. baseball under the leadership of Joe Catanzaro '83.

Lynn Wesley Grimm Memorial Scholarship, established by family members of this Class of 1967 graduate for a special education major.

Robert McCarty Memorial Scholarship, created and funded by alumni brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon in memory of their fraternity brother. The award will be given to a student in the College of Business.

Anyone wishing to contribute to these or other scholarships, or wishing to create a new scholarship, is invited to contact the Development Center, Bloomsburg University, Bloomsburg, PA 17815, or at (717) 389-4128.

Parents pledge over $152,000

Parents of Bloomsburg University students once again have demonstrated their confidence in and commitment to the education their daughters and sons are receiving by pledging $152,734 (including donations from companies which match employee gifts) to the 1996-1997 Parents' Fund. Over 1,000 parents responded to the annual phonathon with pledges and contributions, according to Scott Righter '86, former assistant director of development.

The campaign this year focused on obtaining sponsorships for the 1,850 new seats in Mitrani Hall, the auditorium in the Haas Center for the Arts. Two hundred nineteen parents responded by sponsoring one or more seats. Twenty-two earmarked gifts to either the University Fund, the new library construction project, the arts or the Husky Club; the remainder supported the seat replacement program.

Righter thanked Margaret Biner and her husband, Uwe, who endorsed the seat sponsorship program by leading the parents' campaign. They sponsored two seats in honor of their daughters, Anna, Class of 1995, and Katie, a sophomore.

Parents who missed the call to participate in the campaign may make a pledge by contacting Susan Hicks '67, assistant director of development, at (717) 389-4128.

Scholarship named for Dr. Webber

Dr. Margaret "Joy" Webber, who died in September 1995, was a professor of special education at Bloomsburg from 1968-1984. To keep her memory alive, her family and friends are creating a scholarship in her name.

Former students and colleagues will remember Dr. Webber as always searching for the best methods to help children learn and as a pioneer in creating the learning disabilities program. Dedicated to her students, Dr. Webber was their friend and confidant and maintained many long-term relationships with them after they graduated.

Before coming to Bloomsburg, Dr. Webber was an instructor and laboratory school teacher at Temple University, where she also earned her master's degree and doctorate. As a returning adult student, she earned her undergraduate degree from State University of New York at Oneonta.

Somewhat reflecting Dr. Webber's own experience, students considered for the Margaret S. Webber Memorial Scholarship will be either speech pathology and audiology majors or special education majors with an emphasis on learning disabilities, mental retardation, physically handicapped, or seriously emotionally disturbed. They will also be returning adult students who demonstrate an independent, open-minded nature, willing to question traditional theory.

A $10,000 goal has been set to endow the Margaret S. Webber Memorial Scholarship. Alumni and friends who would like to help keep Dr. Webber's memory alive by supporting this fund may send contributions to: BU Foundation — Webber Scholarship, Bloomsburg University, 400 East Second St., Bloomsburg, PA 17815.

Sponsor a seat in Mitrani Hall

Remember a special classmate, teacher or friend. Honor the extraordinary person, people or occasion. Acknowledge a graduation, a birthday, a campus romance, an engagement or wedding. Mark your involvement in a particular activity, significant program, or colossal event.

This past summer, the 33-year-old seats in the Marco and Louise Mitrani Hall in the Haas Center for the Arts were replaced. To underwrite the cost, a special campaign is underway to identify sponsors — $350 for one seat, $500 for two seats. Those sponsoring seats will have inscriptions of their choice engraved on Metals nameplates on the arms of the subscribed chairs.

The modern theatrical seats give maximum support and leg room and have been spaced to improve sightlines. This enhancement to the auditorium is one phase of the facility improvements slated for Mitrani Hall and Haas Center.

As of December 16, 1996, 489 seats have been sponsored. More than 1,300 seats remain available for sponsorship.

If you would like to sponsor a seat, please contact the Development Center at (717) 389-4128 for more information.

President's Spring Gala — A Gatsby Afternoon — benefits music scholarships

Held on the lawn of Buckalew Place May 3, 1997, the President's Spring Gala raised nearly $5,200 of which $2,000 was set aside for general music scholarships and $3,200 for academic scholarships. Many of the 87 guests chose to dress in period costume adding to the ambiance of the afternoon. The BU Studio Band provided music, and Randall Presswood, manager of the university's performing arts facilities, served as emcee.

Formerly the President's Ball, this new event was co-chaired by Joan Lentzner, Director of University Relations and Communication, and Linda Hill, Development Office Administrative Assistant.

AWARD RECIPIENTS Special guests on Alumni Day were Tony Iannero, vice president for advancement at Bloomsburg University, who was designated "Honorary Alumnus", Mary Anne Mapkas Klemkosky '59, recipient of the "Distinguished Service Award", President Jessica S. Kozloff, Allison Watts '80, recipient of the "Young Alumna of the Year Award", Barbara Hudock '75, recipient of the "Young Alumna of the Year Award", and Wynne Von Stetten '51, recipient of the "Distinguished Service Award". (See individual articles about the recipients on subsequent pages.)

VOLUNTEER OF YEAR — Dale Krothe '60 was recognized on Alumni Day as "Volunteer of the Year" for his service to the Alumni Association. Returning to the Alumni Board this year after serving six years several years ago, he is the active chairperson of the Alumni Veterans Committee. He also serves as chairperson of the Property Committee and is the unofficial "gardner" at the Fenstermaker Alumni House. He and his wife, the former Fernie Krothe '54, are both retired teachers who are keeping busy with traveling and volunteer work.

Hutchinson first woman with 1,000 wins

Already having coached her field hockey and softball teams to seven national championships, Bloomsburg University coach Jan Hutchinson gained a distinctive honor on April 20 by becoming the first woman to gain 1,000 career victories in NCAA competition. She is also the first coach to reach 1,000 career wins by combining her wins from coaching two sports on a full-time basis.

The subject of a New York Times feature story on that Sunday morning, Hutchinson has combined a record of 1,000-619-20 (.836) with a record of 677-141 (.828) in softball over 20 seasons and a 329-49-20 (.852) record in field hockey over 19 seasons.

"To be the first woman to get 1,000 wins in the NCAA will always be something that is very special to me," Hutchinson said. "This will certainly rank up there (in my career highlights). The other one that stands out to me is the year we won two national championships in the same year."

The landmark victory came in a 6-0 win over Dowling in the final game of the Bloomsburg Invitational. Earlier in the day, the Huskies defeated Indiana (Pa.) 7-1 to set the stage for Hutchinson.

Bloomsburg finished the softball season with a 44-7 record with no senior and one junior on the roster. This past fall, the field hockey team won its sixth national championship.

"It's kind of overwhelming, but I feel it's been a great accomplishment for the university because we've had so many great athletes and assistant coaches over the years. It feels like it is a win for the university."

Making her accomplishments more impressive is the fact that Hutchinson's winning percentage coaching two sports full time is so high, greater than that of more famous names such as Dean Smith (879-255, 77.5 percent) and Joe Paterno (289-74-3, 79.4 percent).

Entering the spring, there were 18 baseball coaches who have surpassed the 1,000-win mark, but none has a higher winning percentage in that one sport as Hutchinson's combined record (or in either sport), and their average coaching tenure is 32.6 years.

The all-time winningest coach in Division II softball history, Hutchinson is also the winningest active field hockey coach, just two wins shy of the all-time top spot.

In the 1996-1997 academic year, she surpassed the 300-win mark in field hockey, and the 600-win mark in softball during the same year.

Hutchinson's success has not been weighted towards one of her two sports, and the teams have been equally recognized with individual honors. The field hockey team has had 27 players earn 47 All-American awards, and 22 softball players have gained 37 All-American honors. Each team has been in the NCAA playoffs every year since the 1982-1983 season, and Hutchinson has been honored as national coach of the year in each sport.

Taking over both programs virtually from scratch (field hockey had four previous seasons, softball one), Hutchinson won the national championship "double" in the 1981-1982 school year, claiming the field hockey title in the fall and the softball championship that spring. That year was her fourth in field hockey and fifth in softball.

Bloomsburg has dominated PSAC competition in the two sports, winning eight field hockey titles and 12 of the last 14 softball championships. The field hockey team won four consecutive league crowns to open the 1990s.

In field hockey, the Huskies have won six national championships, the latest this past fall as Bloomsburg capped a 19-2 season with a 1-0 win over Lock Haven in the NCAA title contest. Also national champions in 1993, 1987, 1984, 1983 and 1981, Bloomsburg has won 19 or more games in 11 of the last 16 seasons and has finished as the national runner-up eight times.

Hutchinson has coached six field hockey players to National Player of the Year honors, including this past season when Michelle Martin gained the award.

Bloomsburg had players so honored in four straight seasons from 1990-1993 with Gisela Smith winning back-to-back in 1990-1991, Denise Miller in 1992 and Shelley Miller in 1993.

The softball team is the winningest all-time in Division II and has been to the NCAA Division II Championships in every season since 1983, the only school to accomplish this feat. The Huskies have also played in more NCAA tournament games than any other Division II school and are second in wins.

The Huskies have been to the championship round in five of the last eight seasons, with a fourth-place finish, two third-place showings, and twice finishing as the national runner-up with losses each time in extra innings in the national title game.

Bloomsburg holds 16 NCAA Division II individual, team or championship softball records.

Hutchinson's coaching talents have not only helped young women as student-athletes, but several of her former players have gone on to careers in coaching at the intercollegiate level. At Bloomsburg, she has former All-American performers as top assistant coaches in both field hockey (Alice Terrizzi) and softball (Susan Koehler). Others have gone on to collegiate coaching jobs in either sport, such as Janelle Breneman (head softball coach at East Stroudsburg), Jean Buskirk (assistant softball coach at West Chester), and Kathy Frick (head field hockey coach at Goucher).

Dr. McCracken talked about the history and purpose of the State System of Higher Education and then took the group on a tour of the facility. This was the first time the Alumni Board has met away from Bloomsburg, but it plans to go on the road again next year.

Archives seeking historical material

By Robert Dunkelberger
University Archivist

The University Archives is looking for material from alumni that tells something about their years at Bloomsburg and their life since graduation. Next year the Archives will be moving into the new Andrus Library, and we will have an excellent facility for historical research and the preservation of our collections. I am hoping to continue building the research potential of the Archives, and need your cooperation in order to do this.

Material to contribute can include (but is not limited to) letters, photographs, scrapbooks, minutes from student organizations, programs (from concerts, plays, athletic events, and commencements), university publications, biographical writings, films and videotapes.

I particularly want to urge people who took photographs for The Maroon & Gold, The Voice, and The Observer who still have copies to consider donating them to the Archives. These are some of the best sources for a visual history of the University. Any help in identifying and dating the photographs will also be most appreciated.

Although I am interested in the activities of all our alumni, during and after their time here, I want to focus on two collecting areas at this time. Those with wartime experiences and those who had athletic careers as players or coaches. The wartime material can include letters in and from home, photographs, maps, reports, training manuals, newsletters and magazines, and anything else related to serving with the military. Photocopies of letters and other documents are also acceptable if you want to retain the originals.

Material relating to an athletic career can include letters, photographs, playbooks and scorebooks, media and promotional publications, newspaper articles, films and videotapes, and anything else that describes your career.

New scholarships established

Hollingsworth Patricia Boyle Hollingsworth, Class of 1954, has established a limited-term scholarship for communication disorders and special education majors. This gift to Bloomsburg University students is in honor of her retirement from a lengthy teaching career. Currently residing in Gettysburg, Hollingsworth is relocating to New Hampshire.

Bell Atlantic - Pennsylvania, Inc. Established through the State System of Higher Education, Bell Atlantic PA is awarding each of the 14 System universities an annual $1,000 scholarship for a full-time, incoming freshman. The 1997-98 recipient will be Melissa Wolfgang, a chemistry major from Danville, Pa.

Archives

Once again, photocopies are acceptable, and material can be donated at a later date if you want to keep it for now.

Alumni of the University are a wonderful source of information on its history and legacy. You can contact me by telephone (717-389-4210), by e-mail at rdunkelb@bloomsu.edu, or by mail addressed to Robert Dunkelberger, University Archivist, Harvey A. Andruss Library, Bloomsburg, PA 17815, if you have anything you would like to donate.

Please help the Archives create a valuable resource on the contributions that Bloomsburg's students have made to the University and their communities.

Quay Hanna '92 has written a book, Bus America, Revelation of a Red Neck, in which he describes a three-month bus trip around the United States he undertook in 1993. In describing his experiences and the resulting book, he writes:

"I was born and raised in the small town of Strasburg, Pa., and I grew to be a racist over the first 23 years of my life. The book tells of my journeys on the bus and in the bus stations, while an underlying theme develops of how I ended my prejudice because of this trip. I had little or no interaction with minorities before going to B.U., and once there—even though I had much contact with different races—I still held on to my racist ways. By the end of my Greyhound trip, though, things had changed."

"Facing up to my shortcomings as a human being during this adventure pushed me to take more trips, and even more steps towards self-improvement. I traveled in Europe for nine weeks in 1994, spent time in Argentina and Chile during the end of 1994 and beginning of 1995, traveled the U.S. for four more months with another B.U. grad in 1995, and have spent the last nine months living in Hollywood, doing a little acting (very little) and working on my book."

"I was an English major at Bloomsburg, along with being captain of the soccer team, and would like my classmates and friends to know that the book I talked about for so long will soon be available."

Hanna says the book, published by Middle Relief Publishing, will be released on October 12 at a price of $13.95, including postage and handling charges. Anyone interested in purchasing a book may contact Hanna at P.O. Box 7651, Lancaster, PA 17604-7651.

YANKEE FANS – Jennifer Berlosky '95 (left) had her photo taken with Yankees' slugger Cecil Fielder while she and friends (Jackie Hittle and Christina Hittle) were in Tampa during spring training. They spent seven days watching practices, taking in some games, and scoring some occasional autographs. On the final day, they spent three hours in the dugout at Legends Field, chatting with past and present Yankees. Jen is completing her master's degree at Marywood College.

Class of 1997 to establish scholarship

This past spring, 150 members of the Class of 1997 pledged $17,710 toward a $20,000 goal to create a scholarship to be awarded in the class' name. Senior Class president, Chris Vogler, and other class officers agreed the class gift should take the form of a scholarship.

Pledges will be paid over a five-year period beginning in January 1998. Students chose between two gift options: a $10 initial gift with five $5 increments totaling $100 or a $15 initial payment with five $10 increments totaling $175. To complete the goal, December 1997 graduates will be contacted later this fall to make their pledges.

Full funding is anticipated by 2003 when the first scholarship of approximately $1,000 should be awarded. Selection criteria will be determined by class officers at a later time.

Lori Clarke '97: From phonothon to career in development

When Lori entered Bloomsburg in 1993, who would have predicted the interpreter training major would find herself, four years later, embarking on a development career with an on-the-spot job offer? During her sophomore and junior years, Lori was a dedicated student caller for the alumni and parent phonothons. One of the top callers, Lori discovered she really liked being on the phone and talking with prospective donors.

After deciding to become a communication studies major, Lori needed to identify an internship experience as part of her academic program. Knowing the Development Office's need for student phonothon and having a solid phonothon calling experience, the "fit" as a supervisor for the internship requirement was a natural for her. Because of the hiatus between Scott Righter's resignation and Ted Kocher's arrival, Lori was given nearly full operational responsibility for the 1997 alumni phonothon. In her new role, Lori advertised for student callers, interviewed the applicants, made the selections, and then scheduled the 44 callers. She then participated in the development and delivery of the training program for them. Two or three of the five calling evenings each week, Lori independently supervised approximately 14 students, maintained payroll data, and updated calling statistics nightly.

Lori's enthusiasm and effort for this experience not only served the development office and university well, but also earned her a "A." By now Lori knew that she wanted a career in development. She submitted her application for a development position at LaSalle University in Philadelphia. Flated to be invited for an initial interview, Lori was in the clouds when asked to return for a second interview and offered a position that day. Less than one month following her graduation from BU, Lori embarked on her development dream. The BU development office team is grateful for her excellent service and wishes her every success.

Huskies repeat as Dixon Trophy winners

For the second time in as many years, Bloomsburg University has won the F. Eugene Dixon Jr. Trophy, signifying the best all-around athletic program in Pennsylvania's State System of Higher Education. Winner of the inaugural race last season, the Huskies outdistanced the other 13 members of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference.

Bloomsburg gained the second highest total in both women's (65) and men's (53.5) sports and finished the competition with 118.5 points, two better than the 1995-1996 total, one point ahead of second-place Shippensburg.

By winning the Dixon Trophy, Bloomsburg will receive a $2,000 scholarship award from the Hall Foundation. Gerald Hall, chairman of the foundation, is a member of the System Board of Governors. The funds will be split, with $1,000 designated for women's athletics and $1,000 for men's athletics.

"To be recognized as the top all-around athletic program in the PSAC is a real tribute to the student-athletes, coaches and staff at Bloomsburg," said Dr. Jessica Kozloff, president. "Winning the Dixon Trophy for the second year in a row shows our commitment for a complete, well-rounded intercollegiate program."

The Huskies won conference titles in men's and women's tennis and women's soccer and finished atop the PSAC East in football and softball, while finishing second in the league in field hockey and men's soccer.

Bloomsburg finished in the top four in the conference in six women's sports and four men's sports, for a total of 10 top-four finishes out of 18 sponsored programs. The next closest school had six teams with top-four finishes.

"When you are able to repeat success, it makes a strong statement about the consistency of the athletic program," said Mary Gardner, director of athletics. "This is a nice award because it speaks to so many different aspects of our program, including the tremendous job done by our student-athletes and coaches."

For the 1996-1997 year, the university's 18 athletic teams combined for a record of 235-93-2 (.715). Seven teams represented Bloom in NCAA Division II championships—plus the wrestling team competed at the NCAA Division I championships—and every team which competed in dual-match competition had a record of .500 or above.

Bloomsburg has had eight players win PSAC Player of the Year honors in the 18 sports to hand out post-season awards thus far, and three others won the Rookie of the Year. In addition, Bloomsburg won five PSAC Coach of the Year honors.

"An all-sports trophy gives the PSAC an opportunity to recognize athletic achievement with attention to broad-based programming," said PSAC Commissioner Dr. Tod Eberle. "The Dixon Trophy may not always be awarded to an institution that wins championships in the higher profile sports, but rather to a school that competes at the highest levels in every sport in the conference."

The trophy is named after Dixon, chairman of the State System Board of Governors since the System was created in 1983. Under his guidance, the board is responsible for planning and coordinating the development and operation of the System, including fiscal, personnel and educational policies for the 14 System universities.

Koehler named to development team at BU

Theodore R. Koehler has been appointed assistant director of development at the university. He previously served as director of alumni and parent relations at the University of Findlay in Ohio.

Koehler (pronounced Coacher) is responsible for the annual fund solicitation which includes alumni, parents, and athletics (Husky Club) and the associated phonathon supervision.

In addition, Koehler will travel to meet donors and prospective donors to Bloomsburg.

"I am thrilled to work for Bloomsburg University. The excitement on campus was evident during my interview, and when I started working, there was a caring staff," says Koehler.

"I look forward to the challenges of working for a public university in this era of shrinking allocations from the state," he added.

At Findlay, he managed a $100,000 budget, planned homecoming activities, directed the athletic hall of fame process and the graduating class gift project.

Prior to that, he was director of alumni services for the Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation.

Koehler, 27, graduated from the University of Findlay in 1992 with a bachelor's degree in communications. While a student, he held positions in the office of alumni and parent relations and in the development office.

He and his wife, Lisa, reside in Bloomsburg.

Koehler replaces Scott Righter '84, who resigned last November to become manager of development at Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine.

Affinity groups provide 'connection'

At a time when fewer alumni are identifying with their graduation year for reunion purposes, the Bloomsburg University Alumni Association is offering a way for alumni to "connect" with the university in other ways.

Like many other college and university alumni associations in the country, Bloomsburg has adopted a policy and guidelines for alumni to organize "self-defined alumni affinity groups."

At the June 7th meeting of the Alumni Board of Directors, the first three such organizations were officially recognized after they submitted a constitution and a slate of officers.

The first three affinity groups are the Wyoming Valley Chapter, the Lambda Chapter and the Multicultural Chapter.

Officers of the Wyoming Valley Chapter are Nancy Dornheim Stalma '70 of Pittston, president; Henry (Hank) Hurt '52 of Wilkes-Barre, vice president, and Nancy Swartz Lychos '52 of Forty Fort, secretary-treasurer.

Leaders of the Lambda Chapter (for gay, lesbian and bi-sexual alumni and friends) are Ed Horvath '72 of Washington, D.C., John L. Haney '85 of Lancaster, and Charles (Chuck) Kames II '82, Philadelphia.

Temporary officers of the Multicultural Chapter are Mark Mosley '83 of Wilmington, Delaware, president, Alissha Vaughn '94 of Philadelphia, vice president, Shalanda Gray '96 of Philadelphia, secretary, and John McDaniel '94 of Philadelphia, treasurer.

The Association hopes to encourage other affinity groups based on extracurricular activities, academic major, athletics, fraternities, sororities, geographic location and place of employment.

According to the introduction to the Policy and Guidelines, "The Constitution of the Alumni Association assumes that the dominant quality that binds us together in this common enterprise is our status as Bloomsburg University alumni. That shared quality has taken precedence over our differences, which have been secondary and usually unrelated to our efforts on behalf of Bloomsburg."

"However, we also realize that there are Bloomsburg University alumni for whom identification with a group or position related to undergraduate major or experience, ethnicity, religion, region, politics, sexual preference, race or some other aspect of their lives is of central importance and inter-related with their interests as alumni."

"These groups, within the Bloomsburg context as well as in society at large, define their own boundaries for membership and pursue agendas that are of particular interest to their respective constituencies, but which frequently serve the common good as well. Some alumni who now feel separated from Bloomsburg perhaps would become involved as alumni were they able to relate to Bloomsburg through such "self-defined" groups."

The policy states that "the Board of Directors welcomes and encourages all alumni to join in the work and activities undertaken by the Alumni Association to foster the interests and continuing excellence of Bloomsburg University and to foster communication between the University and its alumni and among the alumni."

"The Board recognizes that there are among the alumni those who feel bound together by common characteristics, interests and concerns in addition to being alumni. The Board recognizes that such persons may wish to form groups for purposes that are consistent with those of the Association, but that may not all directly address the current operating goals of the Association in its service to Bloomsburg University."

"Therefore, the Board of Directors has established ways to be responsive to those groups and to enable them to affiliate with the Association within the limits defined by staff and financial resources. This policy and the following guidelines have been adopted to that end."

Anyone interested in organizing an affinity group may contact the Alumni Office for a copy of the guidelines and a sample constitution.

Planned giving program formalized

"Planned giving is a wonderful way to achieve personal satisfaction and, at the same time, benefit others," says Susan M. Helwig, director of development. "It offers the creativity and flexibility needed to address individual situations."

Looking to the future, Helwig invites alumni and friends to explore the various ways they can help support the long-term needs of Bloomsburg University while still providing for their loved ones.

The initial step in formalizing the planned giving program was taken last year with the founding of the Legacy Society. Alumni and friends who have notified the development office that Bloomsburg University has been provided for in their wills or estate plans were given the opportunity to become Legacy Society members.

Currently, 22 persons have chosen to be so identified. A few qualifying members have opted to remain anonymous.

The second step in the program, to inform alumni of planned giving opportunities at Bloomsburg, was taken with the mailing of a special letter from Bill Selden, '43, and the newsletter, Beyond Today, to alumni who graduated in 1964 or earlier. Each subsequent newsletter will focus on specific topics related to planned giving.

Looking beyond lifetime gifts of cash, appreciated property, or insurance policies, estate planning options include bequests (wills), gift annuities, charitable remainder trusts, charitable lead trusts, or deeds for charity.

Most of these options can provide lifetime income for donors and one other beneficiary, either a spouse, family member, or friend. Ultimately, Bloomsburg University benefits.

In addition to "feeling good" about consummating a planned gift, tax advantages can offer incentives now or later, depending on the option selected. In some cases, there may be opportunity to double or triple a gift if the donor or spouse works for a company which matches gifts to not-for-profit organizations.

Because tax laws may vary from state to state and federal tax laws are often revised, persons wishing to pursue a planned giving opportunity should consult a knowledgeable attorney, accountant, financial planner, or bank trust officer.

Persons wishing to discuss planned giving opportunities at Bloomsburg University may contact Susan Helwig by phone (717)389-4128, by fax (717)389-4945, by e-mail: foun@husky.bloomu.edu, or by writing to the Development Center, Bloomsburg University, 400 East Second Street, Bloomsburg, PA 17815.

Alumni phonathon tops $150,000

Under the watchful eyes of newly appointed Assistant Director of Development Ted Koehler and student supervisor Lori Clarke, $154,053 was pledged by alumni, an increase of 23 percent from 1996.

During the spring, eight-week phonathon, 44 student-employee callers attempted to reach 15,000 alumni. Of this number, 3,041 alumni pledged support with an average gift of $50.

Approximately 14 students called Sunday through Thursday evenings from the Phonathon Center in the basement of Elwell Hall.

In addition to asking alumni for financial support, callers also updated alumni records and provided news and information about campus events.

Gifts for the Annual Fund received through the phonathon help to support a variety of programs and activities: scholarships, including scholars and honors, academic equipment, seed monies for faculty and/or student research; Alumni activities such as homecoming, alumni weekend, chapter meetings, regional events, and alumni publications, and faculty and staff development.

In addition, specially designated gifts for the Husky Club support scholarships for academically and athletically talented students.

ALUMNI PLAYERS DO BRITISH FARCE – James Slusser, a long-time resident of Bloomsburg who earned a bachelor's and a master's degree at the university as a "non-traditional" student, loves theater and wanted to do something theatrical for the university and the community. So last year he approached the Alumni Office about finding space to stage a couple one-act plays by Chekhov. But with little publicity and a shoestring budget, not many people saw the resulting production on the stage of Gross Auditorium in Carver Hall. Undeterred, he set about to do a full-length play this summer. With the backing of the Alumni Association and the cooperation of Randall Presswood, manager of the university's theater facilities, the stage in Gross Auditorium was reserved for several weeks in June for rehearsals and six performances. After selecting the play – Joe Orton's comedic farce, What the Butler Saw – auditions were scheduled, and the six roles were filled by three alumni, two current students and a retired faculty member. Then other alumni and former students were recruited to help with the aspects of the production, including set design and construction, costuming, publicity. With Slusser directing and Phyllis Meeker Bernatoni's stage managing, the play opened on June 19. On stage were (from left) Dr. Craig Himes, faculty emeritus as Sergeant Match, Francine Behnck Ashby '91 as Gerakline Barelay; Jesse Paterbaugh, a BU sophomore, as Nicholas Beckett, Dina Marie Faglierone '96 as Mrs. Prentice; James S. Barry III, a senior, as Dr. Prentice; and David P. O'Brien '73 as Dr. Rance. Other volunteers helping with the production were Rebecca Erniisch '71, costuming; Robert Fritz III '92, set design; the Rev. James H. Fetterman '78, production assistant to the director; Daniel Bayley, a senior, master builder; lighting and sound; Brian K. Lupinski, a non-traditional student, dresser, make-up and assistant to the stars; and Betty Ruth Keller Luchak '68, publicity. Thanks also to the many patrons of the play, and to the theater-goers who saw the show. Any alumni who would be interested in helping with next year's production – possibly a musical – should contact the Alumni Office.

MATH ALUMNI – Alumni who were math majors gathered on the Friday of Alumni Weekend to interact with current students and to mark the retirement of Dr. Hank Bailey and Dr. Jo Anne Growney. The group included (seated, from left) Dr. Growney, Erin Farr '94, Carissa Muzurick '94, Susan Dorneman Smallets '72, Kristen Curtis Warner '87 (holding Alliana Warner), Eileen Mecone Pehusa '73, Carol Hetrick Doermann '87, (standing, from left) Dr. Bailey, Linda Brush Rodgers '91, Maria Barnes Sock '95, Karen Zuffro '95, Carol Meng Cristiano '74, Michael Smallets '72, Henry Kipp '74, Russell Warner '89, Doug Coup '86 and David Doermann '86.

Bloomsburg is double winner at PBEA

A Bloomsburg alumnus and a Bloomsburg faculty member were honored as outstanding educators at the 1996 conference of the Pennsylvania Business Education Association.

James F. Pegg '67, a teacher at Williamsport Area High School for 29 years, was recognized as PBEA's "Educator of the Year," and Dr. Donna Cochran, professor of business education at B.U., was honored as "Outstanding Post-Secondary Educator."

While serving as department chair at WAHS for 20 years, Pegg established two computer labs for the business department and initiated a business student-of-the-month program to honor business students. He also started the department's job placement service. Under his guidance, two levels of computer applications and computerized accounting were added to the school's listing of electives, as well as courses in personal typing and college notetaking.

He has also been a part-time instructor at Williamsport Area Community College, now Penn College of Technology, for 12 years.

He is a member of the Bloomsburg University Alumni Association Board of Directors, the National Education Association, Pennsylvania State Education Association, Williamsport Education Association, PBEA, Gamma Xi Chapter of Delta Pi Epsilon (vice president), and is a former member of the National Business Education Association.

A member of the National Honor Society, he was part of Bloomsburg's World Championship Shorthand Team in 1967. He was nominated for Teacher of the Year at WAHS in 1995-1996. He is also an accomplished amateur photographer and sports car enthusiast.

Dr. Cochran, who has been at Bloomsburg since 1982, is serving as faculty assistant to Dr. Jessica Kozloff, university president, until 1998, at which time she will return to the classroom.

In her department, she has served as internship coordinator and as coordinator of the Faculty/Student Exchange Program in the College of Business. She is chair of the University-wide Continuous Improvement Steering Committee and is a member of the Master Plan Advisory Committee.

Dr. Cochran has been active in PBEA as a presenter in 1989, 1990 and 1995. She has also presented at the regional Eastern Business Education conferences and the NBEA conferences. This year she began a three-year term as the eastern representative to the NBEA Executive Board. She has been a member of the Office Systems Research Association's Board and was the conference coordinator for the 1995 national conference.

Locally, she is a member of the Bloomsburg Chapter of the Business and Professional Women's Club. She is a member of the Gamma Xi Chapter of Delta Pi Epsilon, the business education graduate honorary.

Recent publication experience includes serving as consulting editor for a business English text and as a contributing author for a popular office systems text. She authored a chapter for the 1992 NBEA Yearbook, and some of her teaching techniques have appeared in other NBEA publications. She is serving as a reviewer for two refereed publications in office systems and business education.

Although Dr. Cochran is accomplished in the fields of research and publications, she says she has never lost sight of the true goal of an educator: "The most important contribution one can make at Bloomsburg University is in the area of teaching effectiveness." Her students can attest to this and have truly benefited from this fine educator.

Veterans' Corner

Santorum presents new flag for Alumni House

By Dale A. Krothe '60
Chairperson

Alumni Veterans Committee

The Alumni Veterans Committee met on Alumni Day (April 26) to discuss a varied agenda of veteran projects. Most important of the many items concerns our efforts to increase our veterans scholarship fund balance to the point that it will be self-sustaining. Letters will be sent to all alumni veterans, Classes of 1940 to 1949, and further select mailings (if necessary) to other alumni.

Your help is vital if we are to perpetuate this "living" monument to our veterans, which provides scholarship assistance to Bloomsburg University students meeting special criteria. Our thanks go to Susan Mitchell Helwig '82, director of development, and Dr. Susan Hicks '67, associate director of development, for their input and guidance with this project.

Adjacent to this column is a photo of U.S. Senator Rick Santorum, presenting a new flag to be flown above the Veterans Memorial Garden and Monument at the Frustemaker Alumni House. Our special thanks go to Senator Santorum, his aide, David Martin, and to Columbia County Commissioner William Soberick, for acting as liaison between our committee and the senator's office.

We are presently contacting several potential new members of the committee, who will expand the scope of experience and viewpoints on veterans affairs. Names will be listed when all contacts are completed.

Our request for your articles and comments brought a response from Dr. John F. Magill Jr. '43 of Millerstown. His article, "Psychology of a Paratrooper," tells of how service personnel face mixed emotions (love of family vs. duty to country), problems with day jumping (enemy fire), difficulty with night jumps (being scattered in enemy-held territory), specialized training (under barbed wire and live machine gun fire), the tension felt when packing chutes for others to use on jumps, and the "roping" necessary when all training was put to use in the spring of 1944.

Our thanks to John for putting his real-life experiences on paper and for providing us with his personal view of things "as they were." The article will be placed with other items slated for inclusion in the University Archives.

Finally, all veterans and their relatives are urged to complete biographical forms which may be obtained by contacting the Alumni Office (800-526-0254). The records will be kept in the Books of Valor and Service in the veterans' area of the Frustemaker Alumni House.

We hope you have a healthy and enjoyable summer. See you at Homecoming on October 18.

Flyer visits families of Poles who hid him during WWII

David Jones '43 took a trip to Poland recently with a Global Volunteers service program which evolved into a touching journey of wartime remembrance.

Jones, a retired Air Force pilot who now lives in San Antonio, was part of a group of 27 North American volunteers who spent three weeks teaching English to schoolchildren in the eastern Polish city of Siedlce. In Jones' mind, it was a small way of saying "thanks" for acts of kindness he encountered 53 years ago, during the dark days of World War II.

It was on December 17, 1944, while on a flying mission from Italy to attack a synthetic oil refinery in Bleckhammer, Germany, that Jones' plane was struck by anti-aircraft fire. Jones recalls the grim moment:

"All crew members were able to parachute from the plane when it became uncontrollable," he relates. "One crew member was reported murdered by a German policeman. The others were captured and sent to a POW camp. I was able to evade capture when I landed and, with the help of friendly Polish people, was directed to a temporary hiding place in their village cemetery."

"Later, I was able to make my way into the Beskid Mountains of southern Poland, where I was sheltered and hidden by many Poles at great risk to their lives."

"In March 1945, I finally made my way through the advancing Russian Army lines. I was then repatrated and returned to my unit (the 301st Bomber Group of the 15th Air Force in Italy) via Odessa, Istanbul and Egypt."

This lucky pilot, who went on to log 32 years of active duty in the Air Force and achieve the rank of lieutenant colonel, never forgot the kindness of the Polish people.

When Jones signed up to participate in a Global Volunteers service project this spring, he said he was particularly drawn to the Siedlce, Poland, program as a way of making a "partial and far less risky payback" to the Polish people for their generosity. He also hoped it might afford him the opportunity to revisit the families who gave him refuge during the war years.

"With the help of our team leaders, I was able to make contact with some of the surviving family members of the Polish patriots who helped shelter me," explains Jones. So after the completion of his three-week Global Volunteers teaching assignment, Jones had "a wonderful week of reunions in the Beskid region near Bielsko-Biala, Poland."

"This also gave me the opportunity to retrace and revisit some of the hiding places in cemeteries, forests, fields, cellars and huts."

He also paid tribute to the one who wasn't so lucky. "A particularly moving part of my reunion was a visit to a cemetery memorial that local villagers had set up for the one crew member who was murdered," says Jones.

"The Germans had simply buried him in the field where he was killed. But later, the villagers exhumed his body and gave him a proper burial in their village cemetery. Although his remains were later recovered for a military burial in the United States, the memorial gravestone for him still is in place in the cemetery where the villagers buried him. They still visit his grave to place flowers in his memory."

In Poland, Jones came full circle - not only revisiting the past, but also touching the future. This energetic retiree spent several hours a day teaching English to youngsters in a rural elementary school, a role not unlike his volunteer docent duties at the Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio.

And, in the process, he learned a lot about the "great optimism of the Polish people for their future and the eagerness of the children to learn English."

"Notwithstanding the difficulties I encountered (lack of student textbooks, teaching aids and libraries), I'm glad I had this experience and feel it was a high point of my volunteer service work life in retirement," said Jones.

IIT alumni surprise Professor Hank Bailey

Believing he was attending only an open house for the IIT (Institute for Interactive Technologies) corporate advisory council which was honoring his retirement, Dr. Harold J. Bailey was surprised to find that 100 IIT alumni had returned to join the celebration.

A professor of mathematics and computer science, Bailey was a department member for 28 years. In 1986, Bailey was instrumental in forming the IIT and implementing the instructional technology.

This cutting-edge, software technology program prepares graduates for careers in the field of multimedia.

Guests at this very special reception, held April 27, 1997 at the Inn At Turkey Hill, contributed $3,080 in Bailey's honor, for the IIT program.

HEROES HEROINES

'96 Honor Roll

Alumni, friends boost giving by 13%

"Every donor has a Bloomsburg story to tell," says Susan Helwig, Director of Development. She adds, "Often, it's the life-long friendships formed during their years on campus or the mentoring relationship of a special faculty member which alumni carry with them forever. University friends have developed a unique bond with Bloomsburg. Whatever the reason — a measure of gratitude or a commitment to developing the intellect — we are grateful to every donor."

Record gifts from 1996 heroes and heroines are helping assure that Bloomsburg University students continue to receive the "added value" that private sources provide. Alumni and friends contributed $1.69 million — 13 percent over the $1.5 million received the previous year.

Of the funds raised, approximately 50 percent, were alumni donations. Non-alumni, individual donors (parents, friends, and employees) accounted for an additional 25 percent. The remainder was received from businesses, corporations, organizations, and private foundations.

Of the $1.69 million received, $220,399 was unrestricted monies. These funds maintain the honors and scholars program, on-going scholarships, faculty and staff development, and alumni activities. The remaining funds were restricted by donors for a specific purpose, primarily named scholarships or special projects such as library construction or Mitrani Hall seats. Restricted gifts also included $100,000 designated for student-athlete scholarships.

VISA income of nearly $80,000 represents the one-half of one percent received from MBNA bank charges made with the Bloomsburg University affinity card which is held by more than 8,150 alumni and friends. A variety of gifts in kind valued at $80,000 were received during 1996 and include a collection of antique postcards featuring Bloomsburg University over the years, a student safety alarm system for McCormick Center for Human Services, 20 calculators for calculus classes,

The Harvey A. Andruss Library will be ready for occupancy in the summer of 1998. The Tiffany windows from the old library are being refurbished for placement on the floor above the main entrance later this summer. Alumni and friends contributed over $3.5 million toward the project budget, which exceeds $10.5 million.

five serigraphs of the "American Diner" series by John Baeder, and a plasma instrument for the chemistry department.

The Bloomsburg University Foundation, which oversees the use of funds raised from private sources, approved nearly $30,000 for university faculty and/or student projects in 1996. These projects and activities included funding, in part, for the Summer Enrichment Program, faculty attendance at a workshop on autism, developing a computer modeling and visualization of chemical systems, implementing the Covey (Seven Habits of Highly Effective People) leadership certification program, a two-year challenge

Homemaker and Christian Education Director

I have very fond recollections of Bloomsburg. I never thought I'd be able to go to college because of the cost, but I borrowed the money from relatives and then paid it back. Although I was removed from the protection of my family and was on my own, I lived in a private home the first year and cleaned for the people. Then I lived on campus and cleaned teachers' apartments to earn money.

Elementary school teacher

I remember the cold, morning walks from the Market Street train station to Carver. Also, Dr. Hartline once took me to see a tree laden with samaras. His individual attention helped me to pass his science course.

Hometown: Bloomsburg

Secondary school teacher and library technician

I have a soft spot for Bloomsburg. Everyone knew everyone on campus. I met the man who was to become my husband (Bernard), and we fell in love there.

Bloomsburg University gave me a good education — a basis to pass the CPA exam and complete my MBA. I met some great people — faculty and fellow students — with whom I still am in contact. Professor Jim Cressy was so exciting that he made accounting interesting. My desire is to help future students get a good education too.

HEROES AND HEROINES

Community Government Association Bloomsburg University

Kevin Lockwood,
President, 1996-97
Hometown: Denville, N.J.

The Community Government Association has generously contributed to the library — to both the endowed fund and construction of the new facility.

[This gift] was what the students wanted, what they felt was best at the time. Earlier, they wanted a place to go for release, so they supported the recreation center. With more new students coming, CGA saw the need to expand the academic base as well, and therefore, supported the library.

FRIENDS

HERO AND HEROINE

Carl and Peg Stuehrk

Benton, Pa.

Ready to trade the daily challenges of a business life for relaxed country living, Carl and Peg, relocated from New Jersey to Benton. Deeply valuing higher education, they have helped to support scholarships for nearly a decade.

People in this region are very fortunate to have such a fine institution in their backyard. It has a commitment to students. Kids don't have to go far for a good education. Bloomsburg University is an undervalued asset, a real jewel.

HEROINE

Joan T. Lentzner

Director of University Relations

Joan's commitment to a quality education runs as deep and wide as her penchant for the equality and well-being of everyone. As an employee and parent, Joan's philanthropy supports her commitment with gifts to scholarships and special projects, including the library and the Task Force on Racial Equity.

There is no greater cause to believe in or give to than education, which is the backbone of our constitution. I am proud of Bloomsburg University. This University is not only committed and dedicated to providing a quality education for every student but also to working together with the town to create an open community, one in which we all can live together and share resources and opportunities on an equal basis.

HEROES AND HEROINES

The Whitaker Foundation

Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Miles Gibbons, Jr., President

The Foundation's concern for keeping Harrisburg students in school was a direct match with the goals of PRIDE (Personal Responsibility in Developing Excellence). The Whitaker Foundation has made a three-year commitment to PRIDE.

It was Bloomsburg University's recognition of higher education's responsibility to reach out to public school partnerships in urban areas to assist children to achieve their potential that attracted our attention. The outreach is important.

Giving increases 13%

the University/Community Orchestra.

The single, largest gift, exceeding $317,000 was the bequest from Karleen M. Hoffman, Class of 1930, of La Jolla, California. An endowed scholarship bearing her name will be established.

In addition to the Annual Fund alumni phonothon and contacts by mail, special events throughout the year provided supplemental funding. Notably, the President's Spring Gala (formerly the President's Ball) and the Poinsettia Pops Concert support music and general scholarships. Golf outings, the annual auction/dinner dance, and raffles increase athletic scholarship resources.

The library campaign, which initially brought in gifts and five-year pledges totaling $3.5 million for the construction of a new facility, shows that 76 percent has been received as of December, 1996. The campaign to replace seats in Mitrani Hall stands at nearly $160,000 raised toward a goal of $250,000. (A number of seats remain which may be underwritten. Please refer to the Mitrani Hall seat campaign pledge form found elsewhere in this publication.)

"As the need for private funding increases, the Bloomsburg University Foundation will continue its advocacy role for support," says Anthony M. Ianiero, vice president for advancement. "With many library campaign pledges soon to be completed, the Foundation's attention will be directed toward strengthening selected on-going projects and the development of new initiatives that are in keeping with the university's strategic goals."

HEROES AND HEROINES Pennsylvania Power & Light

Allentown, Pa.

Rod Keller, Community Development Director

As the region's supplier of electricity, PP&L is a leader in the support of higher education. In addition to matching the gifts of its employees who contribute to Bloomsburg, PP&L has contributed generously to the university's educational program.

Partnerships are important to us, and Bloomsburg University also serves a community that we support. Our interest is in having a healthy community, the same goal as Bloomsburg. We are very interested in supporting education, particularly the PP&L 2000 initiative with younger students. PP&L is looking for partners and BU is a logical partner with which to work and to support.

OSBORN PHOTOS

These two alumni have helped secure the future of Bloomsburg University by remembering their alma mater with a portion of their earthly treasures. If there were with us today, they could tell us why Bloomsburg was so special to them, but their stories will remain a mystery forever.

If you have made, or are considering, a commitment to help secure the future of Bloomsburg University, we'd like to hear from you. A number of alumni and friends who have already identified themselves as having included Bloomsburg University in their future plans are now charter members of the university's Legacy Society.

Mr. & Mrs. Robert L. Miller
York, Pa.

Daughter, Elizabeth, is a senior, interpreter training major.

Libby's received a good education. We're happy with what took place. The value of Bloomsburg's education comes through clearly — value for the cost paid. Libby's practicum this summer is an extension of her education that will help her make the transition to the real world.

Accounting faculty offers exam review

Alumni can prepare for the Certified Managerial Accountants exam and enjoy Homecoming on the same weekend this fall.

Dr. Michael Blue, chairman of the Department of Accounting, says the department will offer a 6-7 hour review for part one of the CMA exam on Friday, October 17. The review will begin at 9 a.m., with a break for lunch (on your own).

The course will be free to all Bloomsburg alumni.

However, the department is requesting a donation of $150 to the Chairman's Discretionary Fund for Scholarships and Professional Development. If your company is a matching gift company, please let us know so we can take advantage of the match.

If you do not wish to make a donation, then you may want to register for it as you would for any other professional development program. This will allow you to charge it to your employer.

"No one will be turned away for lack of payment," said Blue.

He said the department plans to offer similar review courses for the other three parts of the exam, as well as the fifth part which provides certification as a Certified Financial Manager. Parts

1, 3 and 4 of the CMA exam are applied to the CFM exam.

Alumni interested in taking the exam must register with the IMA by calling 800-638-4427. Remember that registration must be completed prior to scheduling the exam at your own convenience.

For more information, contact Blue at (717) 389-4519 or by e-mail: blue@planetx.bloomu.edu.

Hints for Homecoming

* Start planning now!

* Contact your friends and invite them to meet you in Bloomsburg! If you are in the company of good friends, you will be sure to have a good time!

* If you've lost touch with friends, contact the Alumni Office -- we may be able to help you locate them!

* If you need overnight accommodations, make your reservations now! The Alumni Office can send you a list of hotels/motels with telephone numbers and approximate rates.

* Watch the Homecoming Parade somewhere along College Hill. Since the parade begins from the hospital parking lot at 10:30 a.m., you will be able to view the entire parade and still get to the upper campus in time for the festivities!

* Plan to participate in the Homecoming picnic at Nelson Fieldhouse. There will be reserved tables for reunion classes. Choice of Berrigan subs or picnic buffet. Serving from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m.

* Get your tickets for the musical, "Grease," early. A limited number of tickets will be held for alumni. $25 per person. Dinner-Theatre package $35 per person.

* Stick around for the Homecoming Pops Concert on Sunday afternoon at 2:30. It's a fun performance by the Concert Choir, Husky Singers and Women's Choral Ensemble.

* For a Homecoming brochure, contact the Alumni Office: 800-526-0254 alum@husky.bloomu.edu
